

Spa Solis Lead by Ireland's Best Spa Manager

The IBPA Irish Beauty Industry Awards 2009 in the Burlington Hotel, Dublin, celebrate the annual achievements of Ireland's professional Beauty, Nail, Make up and Spa sectors. Congratulations go to Rebecca Hamilton of Spa Solis at Solis Lough Eske Castle who won Best Spa Manager competing against the managers of the top 10 Spas in Ireland. Speaking after Rebecca was presented with her award, Andrew Turner, the General Manager of Solis Lough Eske Castle said "This is a magnificent achievement for Rebecca and is just recognition for her enthusiasm, hard work and the exemplary work ethic she demonstrates daily with her team at Spa Solis. I am delighted with her success."

The 15 categories of Awards span the spectrum of the industry recognising individuals, salons, Spas, suppliers and training providers from across the 32 counties of Ireland, all of whom make the Beauty Industry the passionate and innovative industry that it is. For the past seven years the IBPA Irish Beauty Awards have been highly sought after, and the prestigious award statue has become a coveted and recognised symbol of excellence in the field of beauty.

Spa Solis was also shortlisted for Best New Spa along with four of the countries newest spas and was runner up in the end. Andrew Turner said it was a fantastic achievement in itself to be shortlisted along with such other prestigious properties, and it gives us something to strive towards for next year!

Spa Solis, sits on the footprint of the old glasshouse of Lough Eske Castle just outside Donegal Town and has been transformed into a modern spa with single and couples treatment rooms, a thermal suite, fitness centre and swimming pool. At Spa Solis guests escape into a world of well deserved pampering and natural restorative therapies with the aid of skilled staff, lead by Rebecca, and delivered within a refreshing and peaceful setting.
